The Competency Model Clearinghouse (CMC)

The CMC (www.CareerOneStop.org/CMC) has a new Allied Health Competency Model and two new case studies. The model (www.CareerOneStop.org/CMC/AH), designed to support workforce development investments in the field, compiles competencies that can be used to prepare workers for allied health careers.

Read about the following real-life scenarios on the CMC web site:

- Discover how Los Angeles Trade and Technical College used the CMC Building Blocks to create a Utility Industry Framework, the foundation for an Energy Efficiency Career Pathway Map that displays how weatherization installers can advance by achieving stackable credentials (www.CareerOneStop.org/CMC/LATTCSummary).
- Learn how Goodwill Industries International used CMC models to gather input from six local communities to develop career pathways for green occupations. These pathways will guide effective training for older workers in expanding green industries (www.CareerOneStop.org/CMC/GWISummary).
